Sector Focus: Consumer Products

When Tai Ping, an upscale custom carpet and rug company, furnished offices in New York City, the Company selected Knoll to provide modern furnishings that aptly complemented the contemporary, international sensibility of Tai Ping products. Paired with carpets and rugs that are increasingly sought for luxurious and prestigious interiors, the iconic mid-century Modern designs from Knoll punctuate the Tai Ping workspace landscape with simple grace and style.

On the cover, Saarinen Executive chairs articulate a curvilinear design theme reinforced by wall-mounted spools of yarn Tai Ping uses in its carpets and rugs. In the private office at left, the spare, angular Florence Knoll Table Desk and Credenza in marble is complemented with two Tubular Brno chairs, designed by Ludwig Mies van der Rohe and renowned for their groundbreaking simplicity, and a fully upholstered Life™ chair. At right, also by Mies van der Rohe, the Krefeld Lounge chair in the Tai Ping reception area.
