

Dex Imaging

Sector Focus: Consumer Products

When Dex Imaging opened its corporate headquarters in Tampa, Florida, the company approached The Beaux-Arts Group and Knoll to create a space that not only performs well but also communicates a warm and coherent image. Opting for a more traditional look, this office equipment supplier sought comfortable wood veneers in the workstations and casegoods in the private offices. However, the furniture also had to be practical and functional. Taking advantage of the versatile nature of Knoll product offerings, Dex chose Knoll Magnusson® desks for the private offices and the Dividends® office system for the larger work areas.

Using an assortment of Dividends system components, Dex customized each workstation according to the nature of the work done there. One such area, cover, integrates the same wood-trim Dividends panel in a variety of sizes, as seen here with Reuter overheads and an RPM® chair. Magnusson private offices in a cherry finish, left, create elegant executive environments. All Magnusson desks are GREENGUARD Indoor Air Quality Certified®. Another area at Dex, top right, utilizes high Dividends panels to preserve a sense of privacy. Finally, two Dividends workstations with transaction counters, bottom right, create a warm reception area.