

Adventist Health System

Sector Focus: Healthcare

When Adventist Health System, the largest not-for-profit Protestant healthcare provider in the nation, moved to its new corporate headquarters in Orlando, Florida, the organization worked with Knoll dealer, Workscapes Inc. and the Orlando design office of Charlotte-based architecture and design firm, Little Diversified Architectural Consulting, to create an efficient, well-designed office space.

The organization's open plan office delivers a progressive, efficient architectural presence with Reff Profiles™ workstations (cover and left). Dividends Horizon® X Base tables and well-proportioned Crinion side chairs provide collaborative areas for impromptu meetings (left). The EWC Pro™ Mid-back Task Chair, used throughout the office, is a traditional work chair designed to offer the ergonomic comfort and traditional appeal of a fully upholstered task chair.

The organization's Executive Board Room (right) includes Sapper™ Executive Chairs, which are recognized for elegant lines, advanced ergonomics and hand-finished craftsmanship. The custom conference table is inlaid with the same Velutto Pelle Spinneybeck leather found on the chairs.
